"Elevator Speech" on Education Strategic Planning Process, Lenawee County, Fall 2016

Fall 2016, the Lenawee Cradle to Career partnership (C2C) gave leadership to a facilitated education-focused strategic planning effort as part of a county effort to create a Lenawee County Strategic Plan.

- The LISD Board sanctioned this planning effort (the LISD Board has the authority to recommend action)
- 53 community members, recommended by district superintendents and the C2C Leadership Team, committed to the four-day (15 ½ hours) planning process. Participants represented the breadth of education perspectives including public, private, homeschool, charter and virtual schools in addition to representatives from faith-based organizations, community agencies, students, parents, and the business community.

The facilitator asked participants to:

- Identify their personal stake in the process;
- Analyze current data representing Lenawee County's educational profile;
- Dialogue with others leading to common understanding;
- Formulate a plan that included measurable targets/series of factors influencing education in Lenawee County.

The result was five identified community outcomes:

1. All students entering kindergarten will be ready for school.
2. All Lenawee County third graders will become proficient readers.
3. All students will successfully graduate/earn a certificate of completion from high school within a maximum of five years with a plan for a post-secondary experience that aligns with their Educational Development Plan (EDP).
4. All students will enroll in a post-secondary education endeavor that leads to a valued credential.
5. The fifth outcome is focused on two principles: everyone learns in different timeframes and in different ways. "Customized Learning" is about educators being intentional about how instruction and school structures are organized to support these two principles.

Next Steps:

- Each of the five community outcomes has, or will have, a Student Success Network whose task will be to:
 - Identify interventions/strategies to implement in community;
 - Monitor the effectiveness of these interventions;
 - Determine how successful the interventions have been; and
 - Decide how success can be replicated.
